THE COURTS.

Appeal in the "Red Leary" Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

TREATY OF WASHINGTON

A Woman's Marvellous Escape from the Smallpox.

The conundrum, What shall be done with John alias "Red" Leary? is still puzzling the courts. The lawyers propounding the conundrum, not satisfied with bewildering the brains of the judges of the State courts, took the case to the United States District Court. The latter court has courteously refrained from giving its answer to the conundrum pending lecision of the Supreme Court, General Term, ing an appeal from the decision of to Davis dismissing the writ of habeas corpus pending an appeal from the decision of Judge Davis dismissing the writ of habeas corpus taken out on his behalf and stay of proceedings granted by Judge Donohue on a writ of certiorari. As is well known, Leary is charged with being implicated in the Northampton Bank robbery. The case came up yesterday for argument on this appeal before Judges Brady and Ingalls, Leary being represented by Mossrs. Algernon S. Sullivan and Peter Mitchell, and District Attorney Phelps and Winchester Britton appearing in opposition.

Mr. Sullivan in his argument first cited the "Articles of Confederation," the provisions of the United States constitution and the Act of 1793 in regard to the extradition to any State of a person charged with crime. He insisted that the flight of the person claimed from the demanding jurisdiction must be proven astisfactorily in the manner prescribed by the Act of 1793. That in order necessarily to establish such flight it must appear not only that acrime has been committed within the jurisdiction of the demanding State, but that the person whose surrender is claimed was actually within such jurisdiction and fied therefrom and that there can be no such thing as constructive flight, but that it must be an actual and positive fleeling from the jurisdiction of the demanding State to escape its justice. He discussed at length the proofs as to identify and then commented on the hearsay evidence introduced in the case. He contended that the mandate of the Governor is ambiguous and defective, and that it does not set forth a crime under the laws of the State of Massachusetts. He under the laws of the State of Massachusetts. He under the laws of the State of Massachusetts. He under the laws of the State of Massachusetts. He under the laws of the State of Massachusetts. He under the laws of the State of Massachusetts. Mr. Britton, who made the answering argument, tion or conviction according to the established forms of justice.

Mr. Britton, who made the answering argument, contended that the return setting forth the warrant by which the prisoner is held is sufficient; that the warrant is the document which authorizes the arrest and detention; that the preliminary steps which led to issuing the warrant are no part of the authority by which the prisoner is held; that if it is desired to contest the jurisdiction or authority of the Governor of the State of New York to issue the warrant it must be done by alleging, by way of traverse, the facts wanting to constitute such jurisdiction; that such warrant was sufficient to hold Leary; that it is not lawful in this proceeding to inquire whether in fact the prisoner is a fuglity of from justice from the State of Massachusetts, nor whether he committed an offence, or the offence with which he is in that State charged; that the question of identity was correctly determined by Judge Davis, and that taking into consideration all the facts and the laws applicable to them the decision of Judge Davis should be affirmed.

At the close of the argument the Court took the papers, reserving its decision.

MEMENTO OF THE WAR.

udge Freedman has just sustained an order of est in a case which is of interest both on account of the facts and the law. It grows out of the Treaty of Washington, between the United States and Great Britain, which, among other things, provided for a mixed commission to pass on British and American claims. The papers in the case show that the de-dendant, Augustine R. McDonald, a British subject, and a claim pending before this commission for cotton destroyed by our army during the war. To prosecute this claim he employed the plaintiffs, General Charles E. Hovey and William P. Doll, attor. General Charles E. Hovey and William P. Doll, attor, noys in Washington, D. C., making them a written contract, by which he agreed to give them a sum equal to one-quarter of his recovery, and providing that their claim for compensation should constitute a lieu upon any award that should be made to him. An award was made of about $200,000, but before its payment McDonald made a frauduent assignment of his whole claim to defeat the plaintiffs recovery. Upon hearing of this fact the plaintiffs recovery. Upon hearing of this fact the plaintiffs began an action in the superione Court of the District of Columbia against McDonald and his fraudulent assignes to have their rights settled and to enjoin the defendants from collecting the award. In that action an order was made by consont, appointing George W. Riggs, the banker, of washington, receiver of half the award, which he was directed to invest in bonds of the District of Columbia and hold, subject to the plaintiffs' lien, to swait the turther decree of the Court. The detendants in that action demurres to the plaintiffs' bill, their demurrer was sutstained, and the plaintiffs bplasting the supposaled, but, despite the appeal, McDonald obtained coupation that of a glazier, was yesterday ar-ed for trial in Part 1 of the Court of General signed for the second with perjury. The accused was a ritness during the trial of Freeman and Bernstein, who were convicted of arson in the first degree by witness during the trial of Freeman and Bernstein, who were convicted of arson in the first degree by Assistant District Attorney Rollins. Both prisoners were charged with setting fire to the tenement house No. Il Ludlow street, the main object of the offenders being to get the insurance money. Peristin, one of the alleged accomplices, was also tried and convicted before Judge Cowing and sentenced to imprisonment for life. The prisoner, Davis, swore that on the night of the fire he was present at a birthday party sure that Freeman find not left the house from half-past seven o'clock in the evening—the night of the fire—until after midnight. This very night he positively asserted was the night of the fire—until after midnight. This very night he positively asserted was the night of the fire in Ludlow street, because it was the birthday celebration of Freeman's little boy. The day, moreover, was the anniversary of the death of the mother of the accused, and, of course, he always observed it with solamity. In opening the case Assistant District Attorney Hollins, who conducted the case on the part of the prosecution, observed that the jury must be the judge of all the facts presented. The substitution of lies for plain truth was not an uncommon oscurrence. For instance, had the statements of the accused been believed the jury in the first trial of Freeman and Bernatein should have given a prompt acquittal. The existence on the cast side of the city of an organization at which witnesses at any time could be procured for a comparatively trifling sum to swear to any fact had recently come to the Anvelope of the authorities, and there was no doubt it was closely silied to the Arson Club, the main directors of which had already been convicted and sentenced to serve for life in a penal institution. Mr. Rollins said, was the section of the Chrystic Street Synagogue, and, under the garb of religion, an offence committed by him was the more heimous. Chief Clerk Sparks and Mr. Manyinge certified to the testimony of the accus

Daniel Rafferty, a healthy, good natured importa-ion from the "ould country," was taken before Judge Cowing yesterday morning, at General Sessions, Part 2, charged with robbery in the first degree. The complainant was his friend, John Brocken, another importation from the name

Mr. Brocken was requested to state his case to the Court, which was as follows:—"I was in Jimmy Shandley's saloon, No. Si Tenth avenue, and I met me ould frind Rafferty there, and we both got drinken purty freely together. Thin I got somewhat drowsy like, and whin a woke up begorra me money was gone. But now that I come to think av it I don't know who tak it."
"Did you so before the magistrate to make com-

"No, sir; I was excellent the prisoner's counsel, was thereing. Mr. Kintzing, the prisoner's counsel, was thereupon asked if he desired to sak the witness any questions, to which Mr. Kintzing replied, "No, sir; the witness is a good assistant of mine and pleads my client's case himself, for which, I suppose, I shall have to avoid any fuss with him."

Mr. Herring then remarked that there was nothing in the case and abandoned it, remarking that the complainant had begun to celebrate St. Patrick's day complainant had begun to celebrate St. Patrick's day too early.

"You had better give up drinking," said Judge Cowing, in discharging the prisoner.
"I was never drunk," said Rafferty.
"What, never?" saked Mr. Herring.
"Well, hardly ever," retorted Rafferty.
Immediately thereafter all left the court room, Mr. Rintzing remarking that his client had never "pinafore" a judge before.

MEASLES, NOT SMALLPOX.

There has already been repeatedly published in the Herallo during the past eight years the story of the complaint made by Bridget Tormey against the Board of Health. As a trial of the suit was commenced yesterday before Judge Daniels, holding Suprame of the complaint is worth of Health. As a trial of the suit was commenced yeaterday before Judge Daniels, holding Suprgme Court, Circuit, an epitome of the complaint is worth giving. On May 27, 1871, Mrs. Tormey, who then resided at No. 34 First street, was taken sick with the measies. One of the physicians of the Board of Health pronounced the disease smallpox and at once had her removed to the smallpox hospital on Black well's Estand. Here she was examined by the attendant physicians, who pronounced her disease measies. It seems, however, that the latter physician, in consideration of her having been sent there by the Board of Health, would not sesume the responsibility although both Mrs. Tormey and her husband urgently desired it, to send her back to her home, but, sick as she was, compelled her at a late hour of the night to walk a long distance through wet grass to another hospital on the Island, where she was kept several days. Upon this state of facts Mr. Tormey brought a suit against the city for $10,000 damages. The defence is mainly a technical one. The facts as set forth in the complaint are not denied, but it is set up in the answer that the Board of Health it cannot be held liable through failure, as required by law in most cases, to bring the suit within six months, apd
finally that if there is any ground of setion the Board of Health should have been made a party defendant.
The trial of the suit was begun yesterday before Judge Daniels, holding Supreme Court, Circuit. Colonel G. W. Wingate appears for the plaintiff, and Colonel Prentice in opposition.

FORGING A POST OFFICE ORDER.

FORGING A POST OFFICE ORDER The case of James Morris, charged, in the United states Circuit Court, before Judge Benedict, with states Circuit Court, before Judge Benedict, with forging the signature to a Post Office money order, came on yesterday for trial. For the prosecution the testimony of Superintendent Youmans, of the Post Office, and E. M. Cady was admitted, after some argument, to the effect that the accused had acknowledged to thein that he committed the forgery. H. W. Sackett, who appeared as counsel for the defence, contended that this evidence was inadmissible, as the confession had been made under improper inducements. The objection was overruled by Judge Benedict. Morris testified at some length in hi own behalf, and stated that he received the money order from one Anderson, by whom he was then temporarily employed, and that the signatures were then already affixed. When arrested he was told that there was a certain lady involved in the case, and that if he did not admit having forged the signatures she would be arrested. Under these circumstances and to shield her he acknowledged himself responsible for the act, and before this, upon hearing of Anderson's connection with the matter, immediately left his employ. The case will go to the jury this morning. Assistant District Attorney Butler appears for the prosecution.

PARTNERSHIP ACCOUNTS. A decision was rendered yesterday in the United States District Court by Judge Choate in the matter States District Court by Judge Choate in the matter of August May and Aaron Berwin, bankrupts, on a motion to expunge a proof of debt filed by the assignee of the bankrupts against the individual estate of Berwin. The partmership was begun in 1854, and went into bankruptcy in 1872. Some time previous to this about $47,000 was placed at the disposal of the firm, but in an account with P. Berwin & Brother, of which Asron Berwin was a member. From this fund the latter, a few months previous to the failure of the firm of May & Berwin, drew out $13,800, and this amount was claimed by the assignees as a debt against his individual estate. In his decision, which was a very lengthy one, Judge Choate held to the contrary, and granted the motion to expunge. C. W. Bangs appeared for the motion, and T. Saunders for the assignee.

SUMMARY OF LAW CASES. The retrial of the suit brought by the Metrop tan Gaslight Company against the city, to recover for lighting the street lamps between Thirty-fourth and Seventy-ninth streets and the North and East and Seventy-ninth streets and the North and East rivers, between March 1, 1871, and August 1, 1872, tried before Judge Barrett, holding Supreme Court Cir-cuit, the facts of which have been published, re-sulted yesterday in a verdiet for $104,724 of in favor of the plaintiff. This verdiet does not include in-cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court.

The case of Mrs. Theresa Percy Bell was again brought up yesterday in Supreme Court Chambers before Judgo Lawrence. Another plaintiff, Mr. Maurice V. Freund, claims that Mrs. Bell promised him $25,000 for his services as her business agent in the years 1876 and 1e77, and on this claim procured an attachment against her property last January. Mrs. Bell's bankers immediately furnished security for the $25,000 and her diamonds were relieved from this attachment. Mrs. Boll's attorney, Mr. Tighe, and her counsel, Mr. Coffin, brought up the matter yesterday on motion, alleging that the plaintiff was a man of straw and that the action was simply for blackmail. Judgo Lawrence ordered that the attachment be vacated unless the plaintiff gives Mrs. Bell a bond for $2,000 as security for costs in the auit. Mr. Joseph J. Stein represents the plaintiff.
